THE UNIFIED TRIAL EXAMINATION (2026)
INDEPENDENT CHINESE SECONDARY SCHOOLS
CHUNG HUA HIGH SCHOOL, SEREMBAN

Junior Middle Level

ENGLISH LANGUAGE
(JY03)

PAPER 2

Date : 24 September 2026

Time : 10.30 a.m. – 11.50 a.m.

(1 hour 20 minutes)

INSTRUCTIONS TO CANDIDATES

1. This subject comprises Paper 1 (40%) and Paper 2 (60%).
2. Paper 2 consists of four sections:

   Section A: Comprehension (20%)
   Section B: Forms and Functions (5%)
   Section C: Closest in Meaning (10%)
   Section D: Structure and Usage (25%)

3. Answer all the 60 multiple-choice questions in Paper 2. For each question in this paper, select the best answer and blacken the space corresponding to the same letter of the alphabet as the answer you have selected. Mark the answer with a 5B pencil on answer-sheet 'O' (computer card).
4. If you cannot answer a question, go immediately to the next one. Come back to the difficult questions later when you have finished answering the less difficult ones.
5. Paper 2 consists of eight printed pages.

Do Not Turn Over This Page Until You Are Told To Do So

(Candidate's Name: _____Admission Number: _____ Class: _____)

Chief Paper Examiner: Mdm. Guan HY Moderator: Mdm. Guan HL Paper required: O=1

Copyright Reserved

SECTION A COMPREHENSION (20%)

Read the following passages carefully and then answer the questions which follow. For each question, select the best answer from options A, B, C or D.

Passage 1

Global warming leads to shifts in weather patterns, which can cause crop failures, floods, erosion, rising in sea level and extinction of plant and animal species. Ozone depletion means the threat of ultra-violet radiation hitting us directly, leading to skin cancers, cataracts and destruction of marine life, among other dreadful effects.

How do these happen? Through man's vast usage of the earth's resources and the careless discharge of waste products that threaten the environment. For example, each time we waste paper, we are wasting a part of a tree and contributing to deforestation. Each time we commit a plastic bag to the incinerator, we are actually releasing chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) into the atmosphere. CFCs contribute to air pollution, depletion of the ozone layer and global warming.

If we allow the process of destruction to continue, it can only mean one thing: the end of the Earth. The end of us. This is why there has been so much concern about protecting the environment. So, in many countries around the world, we see the launch of 'Clean and Green' campaigns.

Green is, to cite the Ministry of Environment of an Asian country, "the international catch word encompassing and symbolising the concern for the global environment, and with a common commitment to preserve and protect planet Earth – a word that unifies the world's efforts." In other words, everyone's efforts count. To be Green really requires not much effort but a change in attitude. We have become a use-and-discard society, but it is time to think of 'use-and-recycle'.

'Green for Life' as one of the campaign slogans goes, urges all of us to protect the environment wherever we are, whatever we do. But how often can we do this in the office, when we are often in a rush for everything? It would be faster to throw away that pile of scrap paper than to cut it into size for small note pads.

Yet, think again. Is it all that time consuming to do that little extra to save the Earth?

Many things have to do with habit. Once we become conscious of saving and recycling, it can be constructive and fun. In addition, it can save the company some money too. Whether we are economically motivated or we really strive to be green, as long as we make the effort to conserve, it helps.

When we think green, we begin to notice many creative ways to recycle things. That styrofoam lunch box, if not soiled, can be turned into a drawer organiser for keeping loose paper clips, staples or labels. Instead of buying a fancy pencil holder, why not convert a glass bottle for this purpose?

Cardboard backings of writing pads and bubble wrap can be reused as protective paddings when making photographs or wrapping parcels.

More important than recycling is to cut down on usage. We tend to depend too much on the printed document. Most companies keep documents both as soft copies and as print-outs in ring files. Why this duplication?

Energy conservation is also another way to keep green. Convert to energy-efficient light tubes and air-conditioners wherever possible. Switch off lights and air-conditioning when not needed. The same goes for other electrical appliances.

Avoid other non-biodegradable products which may be discarded after one use. For example, when packing lunch, try to avoid patronising caterers who use styrofoam boxes or wooden chopsticks. Better still, make it a point to store food containers and cutlery sets in the office. That way, you can avoid using 40 styrofoam lunch boxes.

If you choose to stock drinks in the home, cut down on canned and packaged drinks. Buy bottled drinks instead – you can use the bottle later.

1. What causes crop failures, floods and erosions?
   A. Man's usage of the Earth's resources.
   B. Changes in weather patterns.
   C. Ultra-violet radiation.
   D. Rise in sea levels.

2. What causes ozone depletion?
   A. The cutting down of trees.
   B. The destruction of marine life.
   C. The vast usage of the earth's resources.
   D. The discharge of chlorofluorocarbons into the atmosphere.

3. What is the catch word that symbolises efforts all over the world to preserve and protect the earth?
   A. CFCs B. Green C. Recycle D. Use-and-recycle

4. The Ministry of Environment encourages people to protect the world's environment through a campaign _____.
   A. with the slogan 'Green for Life'
   B. to educate the society on 'use-and-recycle' methods
   C. called the 'Clean and Green Week'
   D. to unify the world's efforts to protect the environment

5. What can be done with used office paper that is still clean on one side?
   A. The paper can be sold.
   B. The paper can be kept for future use.
   C. The paper can be used to preserve the earth.
   D. The paper can be cut and made into note pads.

6. When do we begin to create new ways to recycle things?
   A. When we think green.
   B. When we do little to save the earth.
   C. When we are in a rush for everything.
   D. When we become a use-and-discard society.

7. Which way is more important than recycling to save the earth?
   A. To depend on electrical appliances.
   B. To turn styrofoam lunch boxes into drawer organisers.
   C. To cut down on usage.
   D. To use-and-recycle.

8. Why is the writer against the duplication of office documents?
   A. We depend too much on the printed documents.
   B. It has to be kept in ring files.
   C. It costs more in the long run.
   D. It is a waste of resources.

9. What is an alternative to using styrofoam lunch boxes?
   A. Cardboard backings
   B. Wooden chopsticks
   C. Food containers
   D. Bottles

10. The writer discourages the use of canned or packaged drinks because _____.
    A. the containers are used only once and discarded
    B. the cans and packets are biodegradable
    C. the drinks do not taste good
    D. the contents cannot be seen

Passage 2

Peranakans (Straits-born Chinese) claim with pride that they have adopted the best of Malay and Chinese customs. These were reflected most distinctly in their weddings of old. Customarily, the wedding ceremony would stretch over a twelve-day period and it was not uncommon for the bridal parents to borrow whole rows of houses to hold the nuptial dinner. The blend of customs was most outstanding when the groom arrived at the bride's house: he was greeted with an outburst of 'seruni', 'boria' and the firing of crackers as soon as he stepped into the house.

Prior to the marriage proper, the groom's family would have already sent the dowry to the mother of the bride. During the wedding ceremony, the couple paid their obeisance at the ancestral altar and to the bride's parents and elders. Then in Chinese style, they adjourned to the bedroom to share their first breakfast together. It was believed that at no time during the ceremony should the bride allow the groom to step on her, for to have him do so would make her his doormat for life. After breakfast, the couple left for the groom's house, where a similar ceremony was held.

It was quite normal then to go on a 'show-off' walk from the bride's home to the groom's home. Those who accompanied the couple, shading them and keeping them cool, were fancifully and flashily dressed in their best sarongs, kebayas, kerongsang and jewellery. It was all-important to impress 'the other side'.

Like all weddings past and present, the focus of attention was the bride. Her long hair was stylishly set in a 'sanggul', a large knot right on top of her head. Into it were stuck hairpins of silver and gold, with multi-shaped pinheads encrusted with diamonds and colourful gems. They were so closely positioned that the whole 'sanggul' resembled a single head-dress. This was the opportune moment to display the family's wealth and to lend greater prestige, a lot more jewellery was borrowed from grandmothers and aunts.

The bridal gown consisted of a satin skirt, heavily trimmed and embroidered, a Chinese-style satin jacket with side-fastenings, a cape consisting of layers of petal-shaped embroidered satin and four heavy necklaces of gold and silver. Shoes were hand-stitched, beaded, velvet pumps. Precautions were taken to prevent sweat stains on the bridal costume, so the bride, as if she was not bedecked uncomfortably enough, had to wear a woven bamboo camisole over another cotton gown.

Peranakan weddings were very symbolic in nature. Besides all the beautification accessories, the bride wore a headband of velvet, sewn with gold motifs to depict the Eight Saints. These symbolised love, longevity, endurance and all the good things in life. During the twelve-day celebrations, there was much praying, chanting and feasting.

11. The sentence '...it was not uncommon for the bridal parents to borrow whole rows of houses to hold the nuptial dinner' (lines 3 - 4) is evidence that _____.
    A. all the people in the neighbourhood were usually invited to the wedding
    B. only relatives were invited to the wedding
    C. the nuptial dinner usually lasted a whole night and day
    D. the wedding dinner was usually held on a grand scale

12. The expression 'adjourned to' (line 9) means to _____.
    A. finish doing something and go somewhere
    B. take a rain check
    C. discontinue
    D. temporarily end a meeting

13. The Peranakans believed that if the bride let the groom step on her during the ceremony, _____.
A. she would have her bad luck for the rest of her life
B. she would die before the groom
C. she would be bullied by the groom for the rest of her life
D. something unpleasant would happen to the marriage

14. The phrase 'the other side' (lines 15-16) refers to _____.
A. the bride's friends B. the groom's friends
C. the groom's family D. the groom

15. The word 'opportune' (line 20) can best be replaced with _____.
A. good B. right C. easiest D. exact

16. From the passage, we know that _____.
A. the bride wore a head-dress as part of the bridal costume
B. not all the jewellery the bride wore usually belonged to her
C. the bride did not own any of the jewellery she wore on her wedding
D. the bride did not wear as much jewellery on her head as on her costumes

17. The woven bamboo camisole and cotton gown worn by the bride beneath her costume _____.
A. added more to her discomfort
B. were to keep the bride warm during the wedding ceremony
C. were to keep her in comfort during the ceremony
D. did not affect the bride in any way at all

18. It is suggested in the passage that the people on the bride's side _____.
A. were usually wealthier than those on the groom's side
B. usually tried to please the bridegroom's relatives
C. usually went all out to impress the groom's relatives with their dresses and jewellery
D. looked down on the groom's relatives

19. From the passage, we know that _____.
A. the groom was permitted to step on the bride during the ceremony
B. the bride and the groom paid their deferential respect at the ancestral altar before adjourning to the bride groom's house
C. the relatives of the bridegroom usually joined in the celebrations at the bride's house
D. the wedding celebrations began at the bride's house

20. What is the purpose of this text?
A. To inform B. To describe C. To argue D. To persuade

SECTION B FORMS AND FUNCTIONS (5%)

Complete each of the dialogues below by selecting the best answer from options A, B, C or D according to the underlined function.

21. Doctor : There is nothing wrong with you.
Zamzam :

To express relief

A. I'm so glad to hear that.
B. Are you sure?
C. You had better check again.
D. How come there is still pain in my stomach?

22. Phaik Eng : Cheng Yee is always gossiping about other people.
Fauziah :

To express disgust

A. What a busybody!
B. Let's not talk about her.
C. Did she talk about us too?
D. What did she said?

23. Teacher : Why are you not at your desk?
Kamal :

To clarify

A. I wanted to borrow Ali's pen, sir.
B. May I know why, sir?
C. Must I tell you, sir?
D. Ali is also not at his desk, sir.

24. Gopal : Keng Lun, would you help me find my car key?
Keng Lun :

To consent

A. Sure, I don't mind.
B. Where are you going?
C. I'm sorry, I'm very busy.
D. Where did you put them?

25. Marzian : I would like to nominate Yusuf as our class monitor.
Siew Chin :

To support

A. I second the motion.
B. I think the decision is unanimous.
C. I would like to make another nomination.
D. I think Saleh would make a better monitor.

SECTION C CLOSEST IN MEANING (10%)

Read the two situations below. For each question, select the best answer which is closest in meaning to the statements underlined.

Situation A

Carol and Gerald are at an exhibition.

Carol : Gerald, I don't like it here. The place is packed like sardines and I can hardly breathe. This place stinks to high heaven. Let's go home.

Gerald : Look on the bright side, Carol. This only goes to show how popular this exhibition is. Say, let's go over to the games booth. I hear they have some games to test your reflexes. Perhaps you would like to try your hand at them.

Carol : Shall we call it a day.

Gerald : Ok.

26. packed like sardines
A. very hot
B. very smelly
C. very smoky
D. very crowded

27. stinks to high heaven
A. is quite refreshing
B. seem suspicious
C. is very crowded
D. smell awful

28. Look on the bright side
A. Be calm
B. Be careful
C. Be cheerful
D. Be optimistic

29. try your hand at them
A. see them
B. play them
C. hold them
D. touch them

30. call it a day

A. leave and go home B. stay longer to explore C. take a short break D. start a new day

Situation B

Peter accidentally knocks over Andrew's glass table lamp.

Peter : Oops! I think your table lamp is broken.
Andrew : You are like a bull in a China shop, leaving a trail of destruction wherever you go.
Peter : Sorry, I will make amends by buying a new one.
Andrew : That's alright, I can repair it but you have to break the habit.
Peter : Thank you for your kind-heartedness.
Andrew : Well, you can return the favour by buying me lunch.

31. a bull in a China shop

A. behaving like a bull B. a porcelain bull C. a clumsy person D. an angry person

32. make amends

A. make amendments B. do a correction
C. make changes D. compensate for the damage

33. to break the habit

A. stop being clumsy B. habits are hard to break C. keep breaking things D. change the habit

34. kind-heartedness

A. favour B. understanding C. good character D. compassion

35. can return the favour

A. repay the kindness B. return the table lamp C. help to buy D. buy lunch

SECTION D STRUCTURE AND USAGE (25%)

For each question, select the best answer from options A, B, C or D to fit each numbered blank.

Text 1

All of us have used dictionaries to look up the meanings of difficult words or to check spelling. The word 'dictionary' comes from the Latin word dictionarium ___(36)___ means 'book'. The writing or compiling of dictionaries is ___(37)___ lexicography, and the person who compiles a dictionary is called a lexicographer. ___(38)___ to the early lexicographer, Dr Samuel Johnson. "Dictionaries are like watches; the worst is ___(39)___ than none, and the best cannot be expected to go quite true."

There are approximately a million words in the English language, if ___(40)___ is to include obsolete, technical and slang expressions. The words listed in a dictionary cover all parts of speech and each word is listed ___(41)___ in alphabetical order by entry heading. There are guide words in the top margin of ___(42)___ page to indicate the first and last words treated in that page.

The data provided for each headword usually includes the following: spelling, pronunciation, definition, part of speech, any irregular plural, and in some cases, the origin of the word. The headword ___(43)___ normally printed in bold typeface.

Some dictionaries have separate lists of entries for certain categories of words. These categories, that are subject ___(44)___ special treatment may include geographic features, names of countries. abbreviations, prefixes and suffixes, and so forth. Most dictionaries also provide useful ___(45)___ tables for quick references, such as Roman numerals, weights and measures and mathematical tables.

There are many types of dictionaries covering a ___(46)___ of subject areas. Some of them may even run up to several volumes. The most common dictionaries used by Malaysian students are the monolingual and bilingual dictionaries. The monolingual dictionary defines the words using the language ___(47)___ while the bilingual or translating dictionary gives word equivalents in two languages, as in the case of the Bahasa Melayu-English dictionary. Other types of dictionaries include pictorial dictionaries, biographical dictionaries, crossword puzzle dictionaries and so on.

36.	A. what	B. that	C. which	D. who
37.	A. known as	B. know for	C. called by	D. named by
38.	A. Following	B. Regarding	C. According	D. Regarded
39.	A. good	B. better	C. best	D. worst
40.	A. one	B. that	C. who	D. which
41.	A. separate	B. separated	C. separating	D. separately
42.	A. a	B. these	C. that	D. each
43.	A. are	B. were	C. is	D. was
44.	A. to	B. in	C. by	D. over
45.	A. complementary	B. supplementary	C. complimentary	D. subsequent
46.	A. type	B. variety	C. way	D. kind
47.	A. it	B. its	C. it's	D. itself

Text 2

Malaysia celebrated her 40th year as a free and independent country on 31 August 1997. On the night of 30 August, hundreds of people had gathered ___(48)___ Merdeka Square in Kuala Lumpur from as early as 8 p.m. It was raining slightly ___(49)___ this did not dampen the enthusiasm of the people. They were all there ___(50)___ they wanted to celebrate the special occasion ___(51)___ to show their loyalty and patriotism. The place was filled with an air of excitement and expectation as they waited ___(52)___ for the Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr. Mahathir Mohammad to arrive. ___(53)___ the Prime Minister arrived, the crowd applauded ___(54)___. The Prime Minister looked happy and ___(55)___ when he addressed the crowd. Just ___(56)___ the stroke of midnight, the national flag was given a special name by the Prime Minister, ___(57)___ said, "In conjunction with this historic moment, I name this flag Jalur Gemilang." The crowd then joined in the countdown and as the clock struck twelve, ___(58)___ burst into thunderous shouts of Merdeka. The crowd cheered as the national flag was raised up the flag pole. Everyone present joined in to ___(59)___ the national anthem. It ___(60)___ a proud moment for all Malaysians, regardless of race or religion.

48.	A. on	B. at	C. in	D. by
49.	A. as	B. and	C. but	D. so
50.	A. because	B. when	C. to	D. while
51.	A. but	B. even though	C. in spite of	D. and
52.	A. tensely	B. worriedly	C. uneasily	D. eagerly
53.	A. Before	B. Until	C. When	D. While
54.	A. quietly	B. loudly	C. slowly	D. softly
55.	A. bored	B. upset	C. proud	D. surprise
56.	A. after	B. when	C. as	D. before
57.	A. who	B. whose	C. whom	D. which
58.	A. we	B. you	C. they	D. them
59.	A. sing	B. sung	C. sang	D. singing
60.	A. is	B. are	C. was	D. were